Project name: High Style
Project location: Edina, Minn.

After a couple purchased the adjoining penthouse in their condominium building, they sought an office, spa room, formal entertaining space, and a family room that includes a bar and game area. Adding the new space created a long, linear format with natural light from just one corridor, and it exposed structural impediments that challenged the installation of new lighting and plumbing.

A curvilinear ceiling design stretching from one end of the condo to the other permitted the lighting to be installed in layers, which produces visually wider spaces. The structural columns on each end of the residence were converted into fireplace and wine storage features. Glass walls allow light into the office and provide an intimate connection to the outside environment.
